

S. D. STATE FAIR SEPTEMBER 10-14

SCHOOL REUNION AT KAMPESKA IS SUCCESSFUL

Tanner From Black Hills Comes Greatest Distance

Although there was no higher attendance record established, a record to be proud of was made this year at the Lake Kampeska picnic. There were several who did not register, however, there were 116 who did; of this number, 79 were Aggies, the remaining 37 were wives, husbands, and friends of Aggies, and prospective students. With the exception of the classes of '12, '14, '15, '16, and '19, every class from '11 to '31 inclusive were represented. Not a bad record at all.

Visiting filled the morning hours until twelve-thirty when registration began. Immediately following, the picnic dinner was served cafeteria style and eaten from a long table on the porch of the Spider Palace. At two-thirty the general assembly was held, Marie Bentin and Luella Rund opening the program with ukelele selections. Walter Shirley, Watertown Chamber of Commerce secretary, gave an interesting and appropriate address of welcome, which was followed with a reading by Mrs. Adolph Kuehl. Professor R. N. Ax-ford who is now superintendent of schools at Bridgewater, spent a few minutes in reminiscence of school acquaintances and incidents which created much merriment. A humorous reading in Italian dialect presented by Mrs. Kuehl preceded the awarding of prizes.

State college stationery was awarded M. O. and Ward Johnson of '11 for those who attended S. D. S. A. the greatest number of years ago. Isaac Tanner came out from Pringle and captured the long distance prize, a road map which attaches to the windshield. Mr. and Mrs. Gene Ring received a framed picture to adorn the home of the newly weds and Carrol Breese's '22 Ford rambled home a repair kit to the good. Serving trays were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Ward Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cowan for having the largest families.

The inter-society baseball game was called at four o'clock with the seventh inning ending in a score of 8-4 in favor of the Amphictyons. (Continued on Page Three)

Picnic To Be An Annual Affair

The first picnic and get-together was held at Rest Haven, Lake Andes July 27th by the Aggies and their friends. Some thirty Aggies brought their picnic dinners and spent the day renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. The Aggies voted unanimously to make the picnic an annual affair. The following were chosen for the committee on arrangements: Calvin Crisman, '24, Geddes; Sam Bult, '22, Armour; L. W. DeHaan, '30; Thos. Larson, '30, Platte.

Dad and Mrs. Scarbro attended the picnic and enjoyed meeting the Aggies and their friends of the south part of the state.

Dr. C. Parshall Accepts Position

Dr. Chas. Parshall has just been appointed head of the animal health department of the State college of North Dakota. Charles graduated from the Aggie school with the class of 1923. He spent one year at State college and then entered the University of New York where he graduated with honors this last June. It is fine to have our boys back to the great mid-west and help in the development of the greatest agricultural country in the world. The class of '23 will be glad to know of the success of Charles. We all have a feeling of personal pride in the worth while things the Aggies are doing.

30 DAY PHEASANT SEASON IN BROOKINGS COUNTY

Brookings county will again have a thirty day open season on pheasants, according to an announcement by O. H. Johnson, state game and fish commissioner. The daily limit, however, was reduced to five birds a day, one of which may be a hen, with a bag limit of 15 at one time.

Although it was decided to continue the shipping tag privilege, it was thought advisable to limit the number of shipping tags to 10 birds for each holder of a non-resident license. The tags are not to be transferable. The commission had considered abolishing the privilege because of its abuse last season.

Hunting limit on pheasants for surrounding counties are: Fifteen days, Codington, Duell, Minnehaha. Thirty days, Moody and Lake. Forty days, Beadle, Kingsbury and Spink.

Meet Me at the Fair.

DEAN LARSON WILL TALK TO AGGIES AT FAIR

Aggies and their friends who intend to attend the State Fair this year will have a special treat in store in the fact that C. Larsen, Dean of Agriculture at State college, will address them at their reunion at ten thirty a. m.

The reunion at the State Fair of Aggie graduates and former students is an annual affair. The program, in charge of the Alumni association, in addition to Dean Larsen's address, will include singing, directed by Paul J. Scarbro, as well as a review of the progress of the School of Agriculture, by the principal. In addition to the above program, a number of graduates have consented to give talks. After the program, classes or groups of friends will get together and have dinner. It is the wish of the committee that all Aggies register at the School of Agriculture building as soon as they reach the grounds.

TED SCHULTZ IS OFFERED SCHOLARSHIP TO HARVARD

Ted Schultz, '23, Hetland, former Alumni president, KFDY announcer, and graduate from State college, has been attending the University of Wisconsin. Word to his parents at Hetland, state that he has been traveling in the east during the major part of the summer, and at present is doing statistical work for Dr. Black at Washington, D. C. Ted has a scholarship to the University of Wisconsin and is doing such good work for his present employer that Dr. Black has offered him a scholarship to Harvard.

Reunion Planned For Hobo Day

There will be a big get-together in the Aggie Chapel for the Aggie grads, former students and friends of the School of Agriculture. According to the committee in charge the big fun will start as soon as the Aggies have had time to get a bite to eat after the big game.

Present plans also include the presentation of a musical comedy or comic opera on the night preceding Hobo Day. Arrangements are under way to secure the "Barber of Seville." Of course, a big pep meeting will be held before the presentation of the play.

The advanced military R. O. T. C. will have charge of policing the streets and campus with the cadet colonel acting as chief or police.

As an innovation, the king and queen of 1927 Hobo Day will be invited to lead the parade. Those who attended last year will remember that Edwin Hanson, an Aggie graduate, attending college was so honored, while Martha Sievers of Brookings was the queen. The ceremony of abdication and coronation in which both the 1927 king and queen will take part will be staged between halves of the big game between the Rabbits and Coyotes.

Those in charge of the 1928 Hobo Day are laying plans for the greatest home coming festival in years. The committee base their assumption on the fact that the Coyotes meet the Jackrabbits in football which will prove the greatest of drawing cards on Hobo Day that has been for years. Inasmuch as the Rabbits will be out to avenge their defeat last fall, the first in six years, while the coyotes will come up en masse in an attempt to continue their winning streak.

Magnuson Likes Work At Neb. U.

Ray Magnuson, '25, called at the Aggie office August 21st. Ray is a student in the agricultural division of the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. He is a senior the coming year and will receive his degree next June. He has been spending the summer months as a special representative and field agent for the agricultural division, soliciting and interesting new students and advertising the university. Ray likes his work at Lincoln although he has not lost his interest in South Dakota. He spent a part of his vacation near Rockham. She is a wonderful girl, Ray.

Students Work Overtime on Fair Exhibits—Work Will Be Demonstrated Daily From September 10th to 14th

According to P. J. Scarbro, principal of the School of Agriculture, twenty-five of the Aggie students will make the Aggie exhibit interesting by giving explanations of the work and also demonstrating the line of work carried on in the school. The courses which will be demonstrated are agronomy, penmanship, dairying, horticulture, farm woodwork and blacksmithing in the boys' work. In the girls' department, there will be exhibits of both school work and home project work. These exhibits will be displayed in booths, arranged to show them to the best advantage. The booths planned are clothing, art and canning products. In addition to the exhibits, demonstrations will be given by the girls in canning, clothing and the making of milk drinks.

In addition to the exhibits of class room work the entire wall space of the building will be covered with transparencies, pictures and posters of students and the work which they carried on as well as many pictures of the State college campus. In the Aggie information booth, many trophies won by School of Agriculture students in competition with regular college students and from other schools will be shown.

Horticulture

The horticulture booth will be made up with the idea of showing some of the work taught in such classes. A miniature hot bed will be exhibited and explained by the students in charge of the booth. These students are Carroll Breese of Danforth and Alvin Moxon, of Brookings.

Woodwork

A number of articles made by students in woodwork classes will be exhibited in this booth. Probably one of the most interesting exhibits and demonstrations that will be put on in the Aggie building is the screen repairing demonstration in this booth. At the same time a saw filing demonstration will be put on. Students participating in this booth are Roy Peter, Conde, and Ward Parsons, Miller.

Rope

In the rope booth many useful knots will be exhibited and students will endeavor to show uses of many of common knots. They will also demonstrate the making of the short and long splice. These students are Albert Brehe, Agar, and Donald Turner, Alexandria.

Agronomy

In this branch of work there will be an exhibit of grain grown by the students in their home project work. John Barron of Flandreau and Alvin Bell of Flandreau will be with this booth to explain home project work.

Blacksmithing

A very interesting phase of forging work will be put on by Perry Downer, Roscoe, and Chester Erland, Howard. They will demonstrate tempering of chisels and other simple tools. Be sure and see them at the actual work of tempering tools, in the Aggie building on the south side.

Farm Engineering

In the farm engineering booth, the sectional motor will be on exhibit. Harry Leonhart of Cavour, and other members of the farm engineering class will put on a valve demonstration. This demonstration promises to be very interesting to the people who repair their own motor cars. In another farm engineering booth, Norman Bergan, South Shore and Albion Vearous, St. Lawrence, will demonstrate the method of making blue prints, and other interesting studies of farm buildings.

Animal Husbandry

In this booth, Leland Bingham and Stanley Conkey of St. Lawrence will show what they are doing with the sheep projects. An exhibit (Continued on Page Two)

SOUTH DAKOTA STATE FAIR

The State fair will open at Huron on September 10 and will continue as usual through the entire week. We hope that the farm folks of South Dakota will again take advantage of the opportunity to take a vacation, see their neighbors and inspect the world's finest agricultural products.

In spite of all that is said and done, the South Dakota State fair is the greatest exhibit of fine products of South Dakota farmers that is held in the northwest. It is still up to the farmers to keep and maintain the fine traditions and institution which exists in their midst every September. That being so, we will see you all at the South Dakota State fair and at the School of Agriculture building situated at the north central side of the grounds, just southeast of the grandstand.

BETTER CHECK UP

Students who are considering membership in the Gold A club will do well to check up on prospective students in a few days. High schools start this coming week. This means that there will be some Aggie prospects among those young people who were planning on going to high school but could not for some reason or other. All awards and recognitions of Gold A are made at the big banquet after school starts.

Of course every student is endeavoring to get one or more new students so that they may win the highest honor that comes to the School of Agriculture students. Drop a line to Ted Larson, president of the Honorary club telling him that you will wear a Gold A this fall after the big banquet.

Aggie Activities By Class of '29

Magnus Mortensen, class of '30, of Danforth is farming at home this year. He has a very good crop and we hope to see him back at Old North on registration day.

"Major" Lyle Kennedy, class of '28, of Nisland, is now "Hank, the hired man", at the Newell Experiment Station. We wonder if Lyle is as busy with his work there as at the School of Agriculture.

Lester Kennedy, class of '28, Nisland, is working on a mucking gang for Uncle Sam.

Ruth Poole, class of '28, of Mud Butte, is at home this summer. Ruth was at the Newell Experiment farm picnic where a number of the Aggies met again.

Loren Poole and Etehl (Boyd) Poole, both of the class of '27, have a new boarder at their home. They say she is the sweetest thing and looks like her father.

Robert Roth, class of '27 of Kereford, is still at home farming his father's place.

Harold Watson, class of '28, of Brookings, is often seen in town and still seems interested in Ferns.

Everett Griffis, class of '27, of Edgement, is farming at home and keeps quite busy. Everett made a trip to Rapid City a short time ago, we don't know what for but Lillian happened to be in the city at the time.

Kenneth Helsel, class of '31, of Rumford, is still working on the farm near Cascade and should soon be an expert at stacking alfalfa hay. He is planning on attending School of Agriculture and bring a new student or two for next year.

Allen Shoun, who attended the S. D. S. A. in 1925 is still at home east of Rapid City and running the home place.

Charlotte Hellwig, class of '30, Menno, is ill this summer but is coming back to school in October.

Arthur Wikle, class of '28, Brookings, is working at the State Nursery plant.

Elsworth Wikle, class of '31, Brookings, is recovering nicely from an injury caused by a motorcycle accident.

Edith Danks, class of '30, Rumford, is now at home occasionally. She has been helping cook for threshers for several days. Edith is going to be with us again next winter at the School of Agriculture.

Wayne Evans, class of '30, Hot Springs, is a busy man. He has done a great deal of the farming at home as "Dad" is busy maintaining the new highway. Wayne uses an Allis-Chalmers tractor and has done some plowing for other farmers this summer.

Edwin Cunningham, class of '29, is running his uncle's 560 acre farm near Conde, S. D. Edwin has finished cutting 350 acres of grain with one 12 foot push binder. Crops in that section are not very good, 10 bushels to the acre being about the average for wheat.

Alvin Moxon, class of '29, is very busy on the farm near Brookings. Alvin says they broke 200 acres of sod and sowed it to flax and have good prospects for all crops. Two of Alvin's brothers (twins) are going to attend S. D. S. A. next winter and perhaps another prospective student beside, so Alvin says.

Carrol Breese, class of '29, reports good crops in south Hand county. Barley making 35 to 50 bushels and oats 30 to 35 bushels per acre. Carrol is carrying two crops projects, one barley and one corn, both of which are very good.

Oliver Herrett, class of '29, has been busy this summer on his ranch north of Arpan. He reports having finished stacking 60 acres of grain August 10, and was starting for the hills. Oliver has two prospective students for the School of Agriculture.

Oscar Lakso, class of '29, of Arpan is farming twice as hard as ever and making good. Oscar is so busy that we hear very little from him.

Doris Wieting, class of '29, of Hitchcock, has been very busy this summer taking care of her 33 young geese and a few hundred chickens. Doris is also carrying two projects which take most of her spare time. She is making good use of her cooking knowledge she obtained at the School of Agriculture by cooking for threshers at home and in helping the neighbors.

Lillian Jorgensen, class of '29, of Enning, S. D., spends her time sewing and must be a good seamstress for she can get plenty of work. Lillian was working in Rapid City and while there saw Thorvald Larson, Harry Leonhart and the Falconer brothers at the National guard camp. We are sorry to hear that Lillian has been forced to eat with her left hand on account of a lame wrist and hope the doctor can soon remedy this handicap.

Leslie Mathews, '29, of Beulah, Wyo., is staying at home this summer working on the farm. We don't hear much from Leslie but are looking forward to seeing him in October at Brookings.

Hulda Schortzmann, class of '29, of Menno, has left the hotel and is now caring for an elderly lady in Mitchell. She tells us that Stella Waddell has left the Mitchell hospital. Hulda is hoping to see most of the Aggies at the State fair.

Alvin Bell, class of '29, Flandreau, is hard at work on the farm. He gets up to Brookings occasionally, but we don't hear how his project is turning out.

Cora Wikle, class of '29, Brookings, is back at work at the lunch room after nursing an injury caused by trying to make a car turn out for a bridge.

Mabel Yearous, class '29, St. Lawrence, is busily at work at home with her projects and cooking for harvesters at the present time. Mabel has had her tonsils removed and has suffered with a very sore throat for several days. We hope it didn't interfere with her voice.

Chas. Lewis, class of '29, Rumford, is in the midst of threshing. He has a fair crop of small grain and good prospects for corn to show for the summer's work. Chas. is anxiously waiting for October to roll around so that he may drive across the State and be with the Aggie bunch again.

Melvin Thorstenson, class of '29, Selby, has been working at home this summer. Melvin was visiting in the Black Hills for a few days this summer with Isaac Tanner.

Isaac Tanner, class of '29, Pringle, is farming the home place this year. Isaac spent a few days this summer visiting Jake Rouch and other old Aggie friends in eastern S. D. Isaac will be with us again in October to finish up the Senior year.

Everet Gillis, class of '29, Edgemont, farmed his grandfather's place this summer besides a forty acre corn field on rented ground and helped some at home. Everett just finished riding a grain binder to start hauling grain by truck. Now he must cut corn as Dad is away from home with a threshing outfit. He is looking forward to seeing a large number of the Aggies at the State fair.

Students Work Over-time On Fair Exhibit

hibit of wool products made from the wool of their own sheep will be placed in the booth. The actual part of the demonstration will be along the line of modern methods of sheep shearing.

A style show and exhibit of project work of the School of Agriculture girls will be taken care of by Mable Yearous, St. Lawrence, Doris Weiting of Hitchcock, Judith Peterson of Miller, Alma Haselhorst of Mansfield, Lillian Jorgenson of Enning and Gladys Abrahamson of Oldham. Demonstrations in canning will be put on by Bertha Bulhane, Elkton and Sarah Walter of Carpenter. Some of the special features of the girls' work carried on at the State fair will be the milk drink demonstration in which Inez Blank of Frankfort and Luella Rund of Thomas will demonstrate the making of delicious milk drinks. be sure and stop and get a sample in the Aggie building.

Bert Keuhn, '16, Arlington is a tractor and auto salesman.

KINGSBURY CO. STARTS LOCAL AGGIE CLUB

o'clock. This was the second party for the Kingsbury Aggies and it was surely a real success. Another party is being planned for August 25 to be held at Badger. If you want a good time you had better be there.

"Dad" Scarbro says "Out of every 100 boys and girls who enter the fifth grade, only 64 finish the eighth grade, 34 enter high school and only 13 finish, 7 enter college and only 2 finish." Think this over and perhaps you can use these figures to help get your Gold A.

NEWS FROM OUT OVER THE STATE

Henry Anderson, '30, of Arlington, is busy working for the Robert Hunter Stone Monument Works at Milbank, S. D.

Exerett and Oliver Baxter are operating a Holt combine purchased this summer, they are also sporting an Olds coach.

Earl Elfrink writes from Sedgwick that the harvest there is fair, corn very good. Earl attended the summer school at Madison this summer.

Raymond Lund, class of '22, has been elected to the faculty of the Billings Polytechnic Institute. He will assume his duties there in September.

Merl Elfrink and his sister, who is a graduate of the Highmore high school, attended the summer school at the Eastern Normal at Madison. They both expect to teach the coming year.

Arthur Willoughby, '27, Hot Springs, surprised the Aggie force in the fore part of August by dropping in at the office for a chat. He was on his vacation spending some time visiting relatives and State college.

Sophia Seidel of Ramona is now working at Larchwood, Iowa. Sophia writes that the "Aggie News" seems better than a letter from home. She called on Edna Fitzer of Luverne, Minnesota and learned that her name is now Edna Moeller.

A. E. Nord, S. A. '17, S. D. S. C. '23, and Mrs. A. E. Nord were visitors at State college during the first week in July. Alfred states that his work as Town and Country Y. M. C. A. secretary is very much enjoyed. He has a very interesting field, having the two counties in the extreme southeastern part of Wisconsin.

Neva Hoime Olson, '21, Renner, writes that she spent four years as a teacher in Minnehaha county. Then she decided to quit teaching school and had only one pupil for two years. Then last fall she again started teaching school and will teach the same school again this year. She says she only lives a mile from Olga Jonsen, '21, and of course sees her quite often.

M. O. Abrahamson and wife of Mt. Vernon motored to Oldham to visit Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wachtmann who accompanied them to the Lake Kampeska picnic. This is M. O.'s third consecutive year at the picnic and we are certainly glad to have him with us. He brought his wife this year and we hope she enjoyed it and will come again. This is Mr. and Mrs. Wachtmann's first attendance at any of these affairs, and we hope to see them again.

Homer Richard, class of '24, spent two years in Peoria, Illinois. Here he had experience in several lines of work such as brick wheeling in a brick yard, work with a house building contractor, work with a paving crew, and truck driver for the Boss Glove factory. This work must not have proved as attractive to Homer as farming for we now hear that he is married and has returned to the old home place. He has a little home of his own and is farming in partnership with his father. The crop of small grain there is fair but the corn prospects are the best they have been for some time.

Earl Edleman, class of '23, is married and living on a farm near Willow Lake.

Junetta Field, Lake Preston, class of '30, is recovering from an appendicitis operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bell, '25, of White announce the arrival of Dorothy Jean on March 11, 1928.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Reinecke, Beulah, Wyo, announce the arrival of Howard Emerald on May 24, 1928.

Charles Painter, S. A. '23, S. D. S. C. '28, has secured the position of Smith Hughes instructor at Lane, S. D. He assumed his new duties August 1.

Olivar Larson, Flandreau, '31, is carrying a project this summer and is getting excellent results from his feedings.

Francis Teller, St. Lawrence, is interested in Poland China hogs. His project is progressing and shows considerable work.

Lloyd Rush, St. Lawrence, '31, has some excellent Chester White pigs. He is going to show them at the Sully County fair, and also at the State fair.

Pierce Byrum, Okoboji, is also carrying on a feeding experiment as a project this summer. He expects to return to school this fall and bring a younger brother with him.

Because of the fact that the School of Agriculture students and graduates are interested in their school and the courses which it gives, many subscriptions were bought by students for eighth grade graduates in certain sections of the country and these eighth grade students are bona fide subscribers of the News. The impression that such students will have to pay for the paper is a false one. If you are getting the Aggie News and haven't paid the subscription price, some of your friends sent in the cash for your paper.

Richard McKibben, '31, White, has had some interesting experiences with his poultry project. Soon after he had finished his brooder house and placed his chicks in it, the brooder stove set the house on fire. Some of you will remember the extreme high winds which occurred last spring. It was during one of these gales. All the chicks were rescued and the fire was extinguished, except under the building. Luck for the brooder house, Lawrence started the tractor and tipped it over so that the flames were soon subdued.

The splendid training our Aggie girls get at State college seems to be very much worth while, judging by the way the progressive young farmers and business men are selecting them for life partners. As you look through the News, you will find many marriage announcements. We probably have missed a few. This is not our fault. The happy couples just forget to send us an announcement. The strange thing about it all is the fact that the girls seem to have a way of making their own selections and do not marry the man the most of us pick out for them. Well Aggie training pays. Wanted—100 South Dakota girls to enter the freshman class October twenty-second.

State College To Have Stiff Grid Season; 10 Games

With a new athletic system being installed by Coach T. C. Kasper, who replaces Jack West as athletic director and football coach at State college, the Jackrabbits face a schedule of ten football games, one of the hardest that any Yellow and Blue squad has ever been called upon to face within a regular playing season. Besides facing the task of acquainting his squad with a new style of football, Cy finds himself faced with the tough training problem of keeping his men in keen physical shape for the long extended schedule.

The list of games to be played by the Rabbits this year follows: September 22—Huron at Huron. September 29—Dakota Wesleyan at Brookings.

October 6—Open. October 13—Columbus at Sioux Falls.

October 20—North Dakota University at Grand Forks.

October 27—South Dakota University at Brookings. (Hobo Day). November 3—Creighton University at Brookings.

November 10—North Dakota State at Brookings.

November 17—Minnesota University (B. team) at Minneapolis.

November 24—Western Union at LeMars, Iowa.

November 29—Morningside at Sioux City.

George Thompson Added To State Coaching Staff

George Thompson, one of the greatest ends ever to play for South Dakota State college and for the past three years head coach of Eastern State Teachers at Madison, has been signed to join the Jackrabbit coaching squad this fall. Thompson, who will also take advanced work and teach in the engineering department, will have charge of the freshman football squad.

The addition of Thompson to the coaching staff will give T. C. Kasper, new head coach, one of the strongest corps of assistants in the North Central conference. Bert Eckberg, track coach who has piloted the Jackrabbits to two successive conference track championships, will assist Casper with varsity football. Eckberg, a Minneapolis boy, and a former backfield star under Dr. C. W. Spears at Dartmouth, has recently returned from attending the coaching school at Bermidji under his former mentor, who is now head football coach at Minnesota university.

George Edmonds, head basketball coach for the Yellow and Blue, will have charge of the varsity basketball for the second year, and will assist Thompson with the yearling football squad. Edmonds, former basketball coach at Salem high school, where his team went to the semi-finals in the national tournament, had fair success with the Rabbit cage squad last year. With his system more fully installed, his team is expected to make a strong bid for the conference leadership this winter.

"Cy" Kasper, who started his first year as athletic director at State college this July, is a former Owatonna, Minn., boy and was a star athlete with Notre Dame a few years ago. The past three years he has been athletic director at Columbus college, Sioux Falls, where he made an enviable record with his athletic teams, winning South Dakota collegiate championships in football, basketball and track. Two years ago he brought his Mariner football team to Brookings and held Jack West's strong team of that year to a 7 to 7 tie, State tying the score in the last few minutes of play after Columbus had held a seven point lead throughout most of the game.

Kasper will take personal charge of the varsity football squad and will assist with basketball and track.

NEW ENTERTAINMENT IS BOOKED FOR STATE FAIR

Patrons of the South Dakota State Fair are to be given something new in entertainment this year, it has been announced by Secretary John F. White.

The head-line attraction in the entertainment program which was given out today is to be "A Festival at Bagdad", a musical revue which will come to Huron direct from the Canadian National Exposition at Toronto, where it is one of the feature attractions.

"A Festival at Bagdad," will be presented by an organization of 80 people, and in addition to the main feature of the program there will be numerous singing, dancing and other specialties, along with popular numbers by the entire musical company.

Only the increased seating of the grandstand, which has been made to hold 9,000 with the construction of 2,000 additional concrete seats, has made it possible for the fair board to bring the class of entertainment that is to be provided this year.

"A Festival at Bagdad" is a complete departure in entertainment from that of previous years, and the State fair board is confident that it will prove to be the most popular entertainment number ever offered at the State Fair.

Thirty-five cars of rides, shows and other entertainment are coming direct from the Minnesota State Fair to provide the Midway attractions.

Ingrid Johnson, Mound City, '31, underwent an operation for appendicitis on July 3. She is recovering rapidly and expects to be back in school this fall.

Harry Leonhardt, '29, Cavour, learned how to caponize this summer and now has some very fine capons. No doubt they will be very enjoyable at Christmas time.

School Reunion Is Successful

After supper and the weiner roast on the hill overlooking the lake, an outdoor theater was formed and talks and impromptu speeches were enjoyed. John Nord spoke on "My Community Club"; Joseph Cowan, "The Attitude of my Community Towards State college"; and Allen Putnam, "The Literary Societies at the Present Time." Others who were called upon and responded with brief talks were: M. O. Abrahamson, Mt. Vernon; Arthur Wachtmann, Oldham; rFed E. Kurtz, White; Grace Baxter, Hazel; all graduates of '13, and M. O. and Ward Johnson, Pierpont, who graduated in '11. Various other alumni and students told of their present work. A rising vote of thanks was given the committee who had charge of the picnic, and it was unanimously voted to hold the picnic at Lake Kampeska again next year. Roller skating and dancing at Stony Point offered diversion until the late hours.

Graduates of the Aggie School Are Successful Farmers and Community Leaders

D. B. Donner, Brookings, S. D.
Class of 1917
Registrar, South Dakota State College

"I can heartily recommend the School of Agriculture to all young men and women who are anxious to become successful farmers and who desire to be leaders in their communities. I base this statement upon the fact that all who have finished the School of Agriculture course are successful in their work.

I believe the best recommendation that any school can have is the success of its graduates. Wherever I go I find the Aggies are not only good farmers, but are showing their neighbors the benefits of their learning, and are the active leaders of community affairs. Those who have gone to college are among our best students. Now, there is a reason for this condition. In my work at the college, I come in very close contact with the Aggies and have first hand knowledge of their work.

In the first place the School of Agriculture course is outlined by an expert in the rural field and is planned for a definite purpose, namely: making better farmers and citizens. Second, the courses are taught by trained professors who build into the lives of these students definite, practical knowledge together with high ideals for the country life. This lays the foundation for a successful life on the farm.

The School of Agriculture will play an important part in building up South Dakota and I look for a steady growth in the school in the next few years."

—D. B. Donner.

In addition to his regular duties as principal, instructor and educator, there seems to be no limit to his capacity to do things for the students of the School of Agriculture. He is director of the orchestra and Aggie chorus, also takes a great interest in Aggie forensics, athletics and military affairs. He also has the largest Sunday school class in the state.
